

Updates to ReproachofMen.org

Due to many interruptions I have been unable to update the website as much as I would have liked over the last few months. However, I have finally begun to revamp the way the main pages are coded and am in the process of a major rework of the Statement of Faith page. The rework of the page will include the addition of a brand new article titled Liberty of the Conscience (which is a very old Baptist doctrine) and a resequencing of the articles themselves.

This rework is in preparation for additional articles to the website, before recoding would become a major headache. The end goal is for all of the website to be coded in XHTML and CSS.